Father and son, Anakin and Luke Skywalker had many things in common.

The desert planet
Tatooine
was home to young Anakin.

Anakin's
dinner table.

Tatooine
was also home to Anakin's
son, Luke.

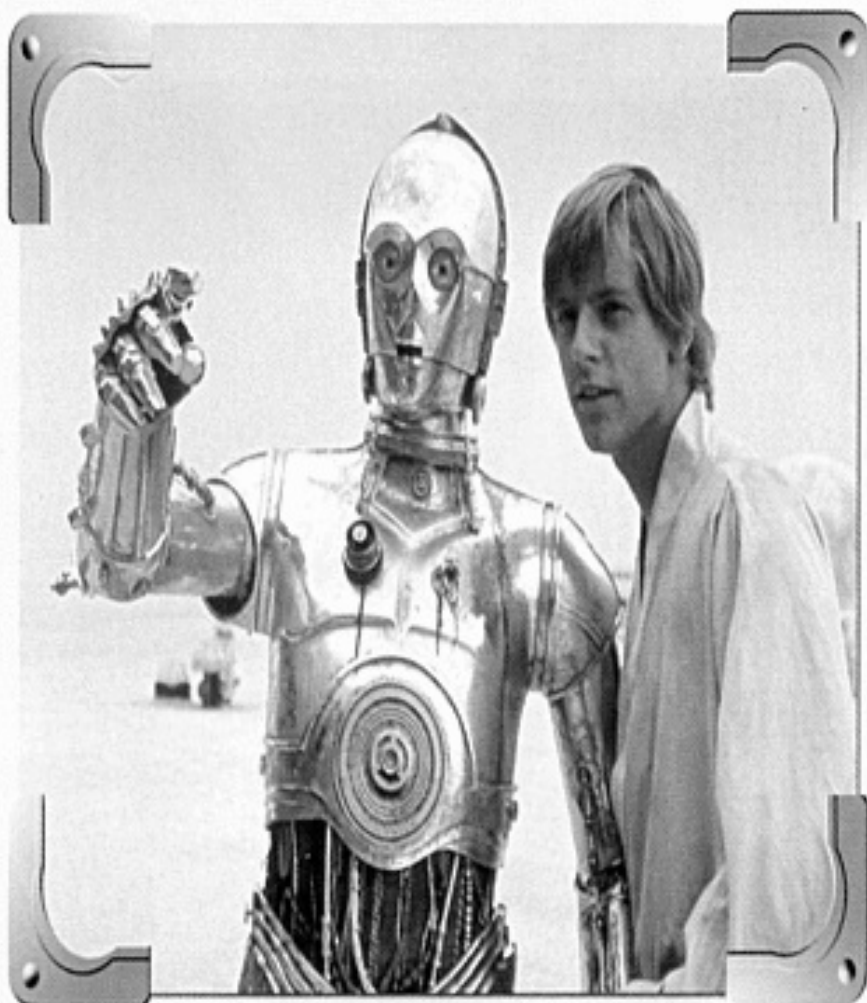

Luke's
dinner table.

Both father and son fixed droids.

Anakin built the Protocol Droid C-3PO.

Luke ended up owning the Protocol Droid
C-3PO!

Both father and son loved to fly fast.

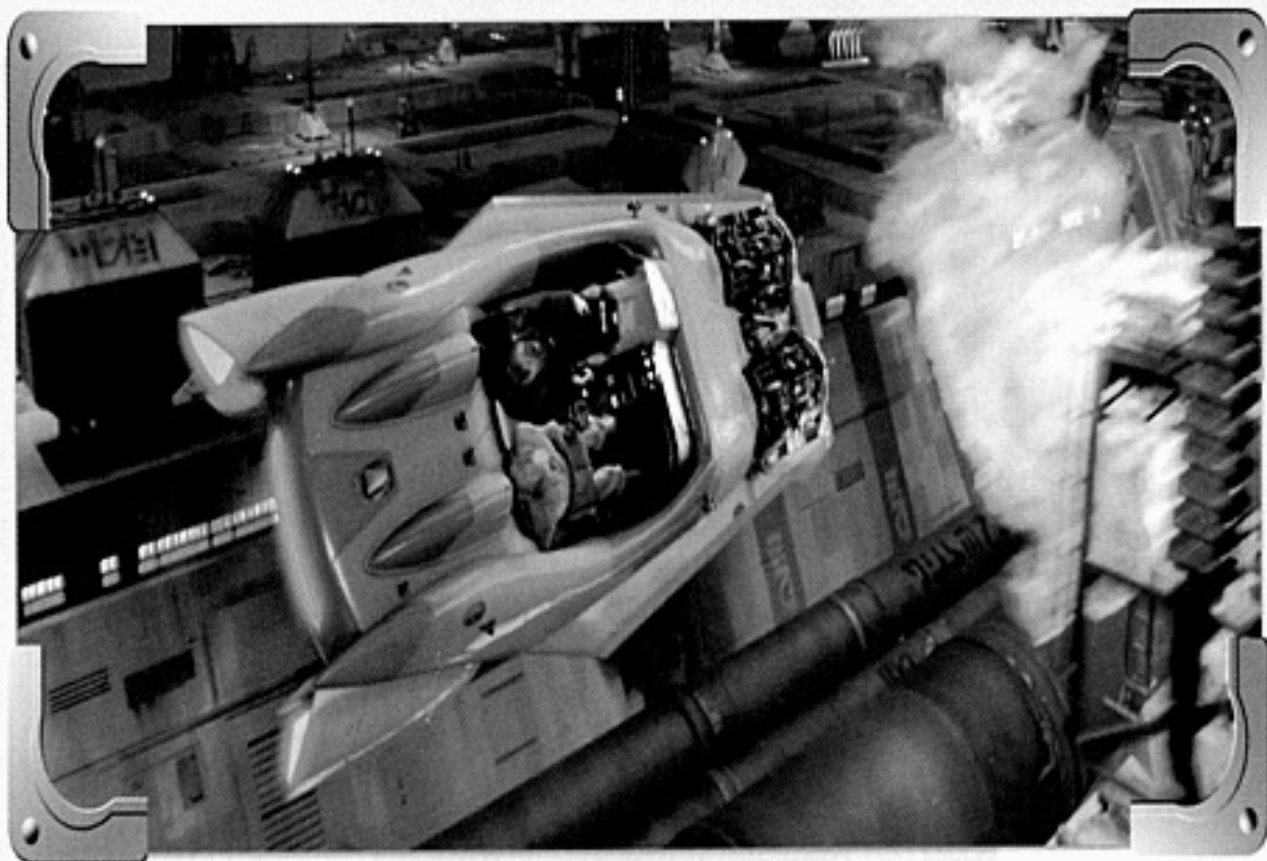

At the age of nine,
Anakin built a Podracer out of old junk. He enjoyed racing it over the sands of Tatooine.

He sold it just before he left the planet.

Young Luke owned an old landspeeder—a real piece of junk! He enjoyed racing it over the sands of Tatooine.
He sold it just
planet.

Both father and son were skilled pilots.

As a young man, Anakin expertly weaved a speeder between giant skyscrapers on the city planet Coruscant.

As a young man, Luke expertly weaved a speeder between giant AT-AT walkers on the ice planet Hoth.

After Anakin turned to the dark side, he piloted this one-of-a-kind curved-wing advanced TIE fighter during the Battle of Yavin.

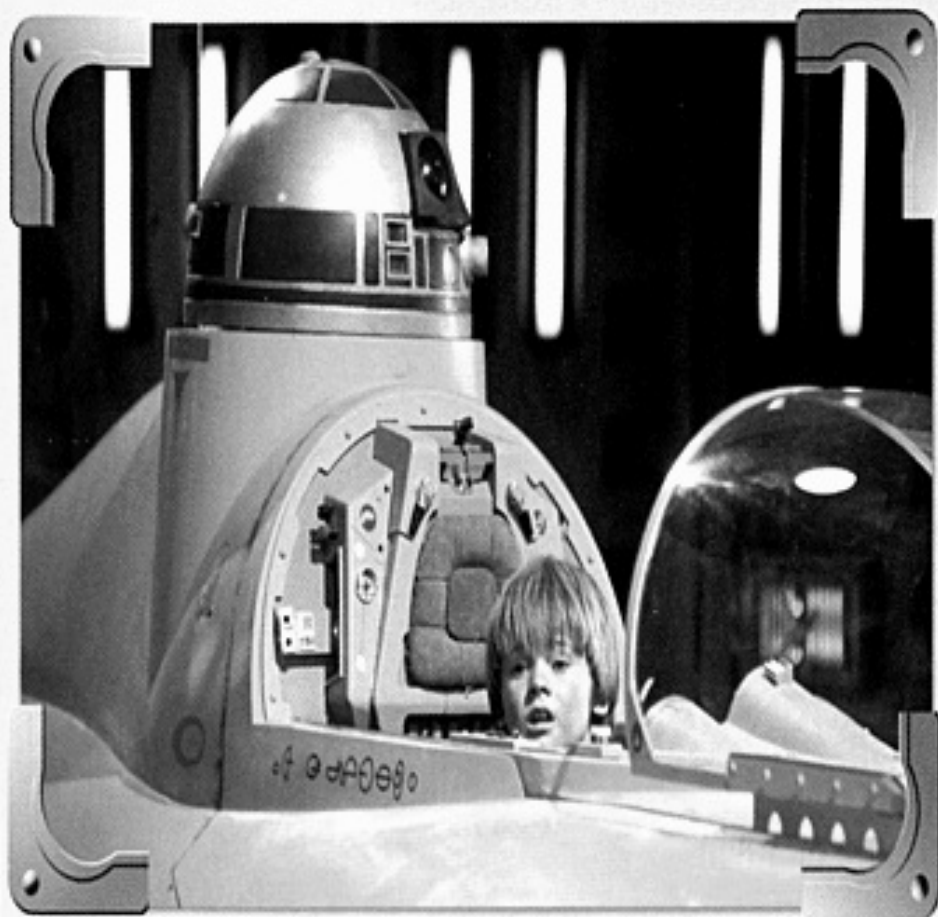

Luke also flew in the Battle of Yavin.

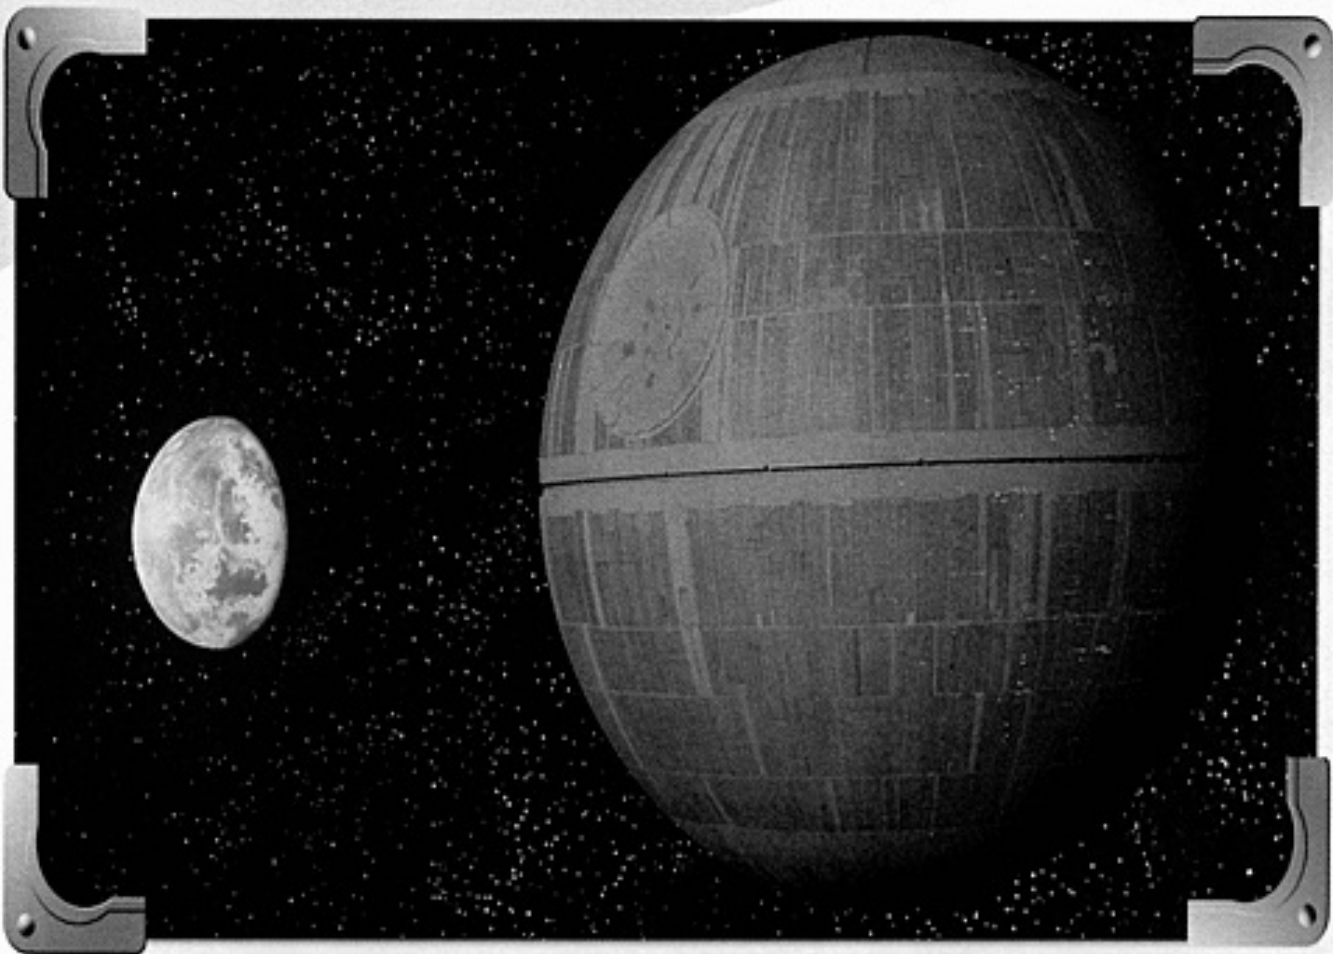

He piloted this X-wing starfighter as part of the Rebel Alliance's Red Squadron.

As fighter pilots, father and son showed uncommon bravery.

With the help of the Astromech Droid R2-D2, Anakin flew this N-1 starfighter during the Battle of Naboo. He fired two torpedoes, resulting in a chain reaction that blew up the Trade Federation Droid Control Ship and won the battle.

Shmi Skywalker and Cliegg Lars

This is Shmi Skywalker, Anakin's mother. Shmi was a slave for many years on Tatooine.

This is Cliegg Lars. He freed Shmi, married her, and took her to live on his moisture farm near Mos Eisley.

Cliegg became Anakin's stepfather.

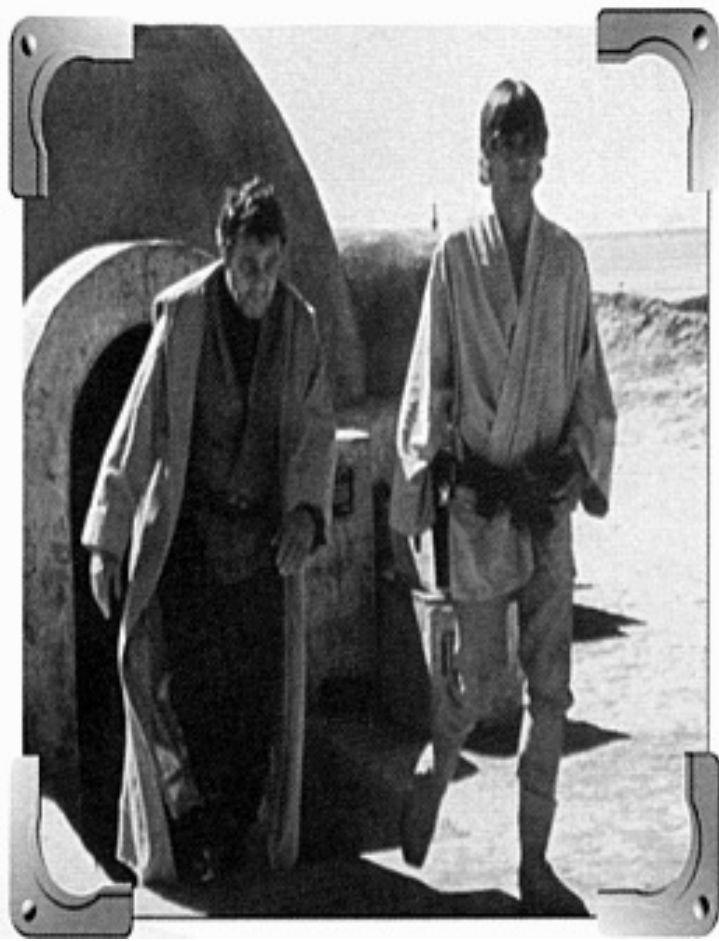

This is Cliegg's son, Owen, and Owen's girlfriend, Beru Whitesun.

Owen became Anakin's stepbrother.

This is Owen Lars years later. He married Beru and together they raised Anakin's son, Luke, on the very same moisture farm where Shmi had lived with Cliegg.

Jedi Master Yoda was very important to the Skywalker family.

While a member of the Jedi Council, Yoda judged Anakin's readiness to become a Jedi.

Yoda: "See through you, we can. . . . A Jedi must have the deepest commitment, the most serious mind. I sense much fear in you."

Anakin: "I am not afraid."

Years later,
while living on the swamp
planet Dagobah, Yoda judged
Luke.

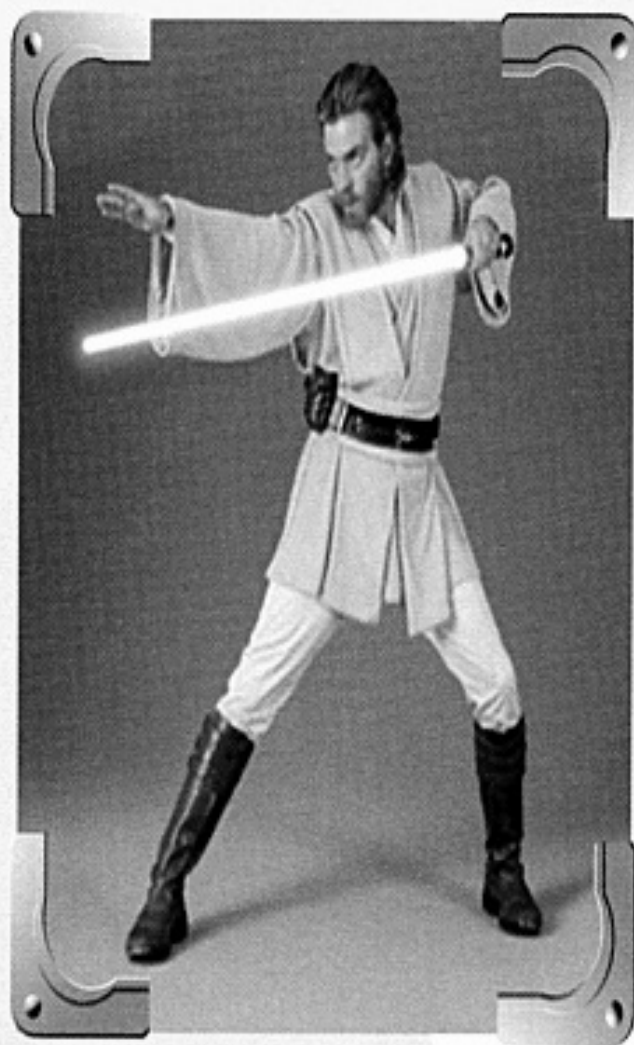

Yoda: "A Jedi must have the deepest commitment, the most serious mind. . . . You are reckless!"

Luke: "I won't fail you. I'm not afraid."

Despite Yoda's doubts, both father and son became powerful Jedi.

Jedi Knight Obi-Wan Kenobi was also very important to the Skywalker family.

Obi-Wan Kenobi in his younger years.

"Ben" Kenobi in his older years.

Anakin and Luke both learn

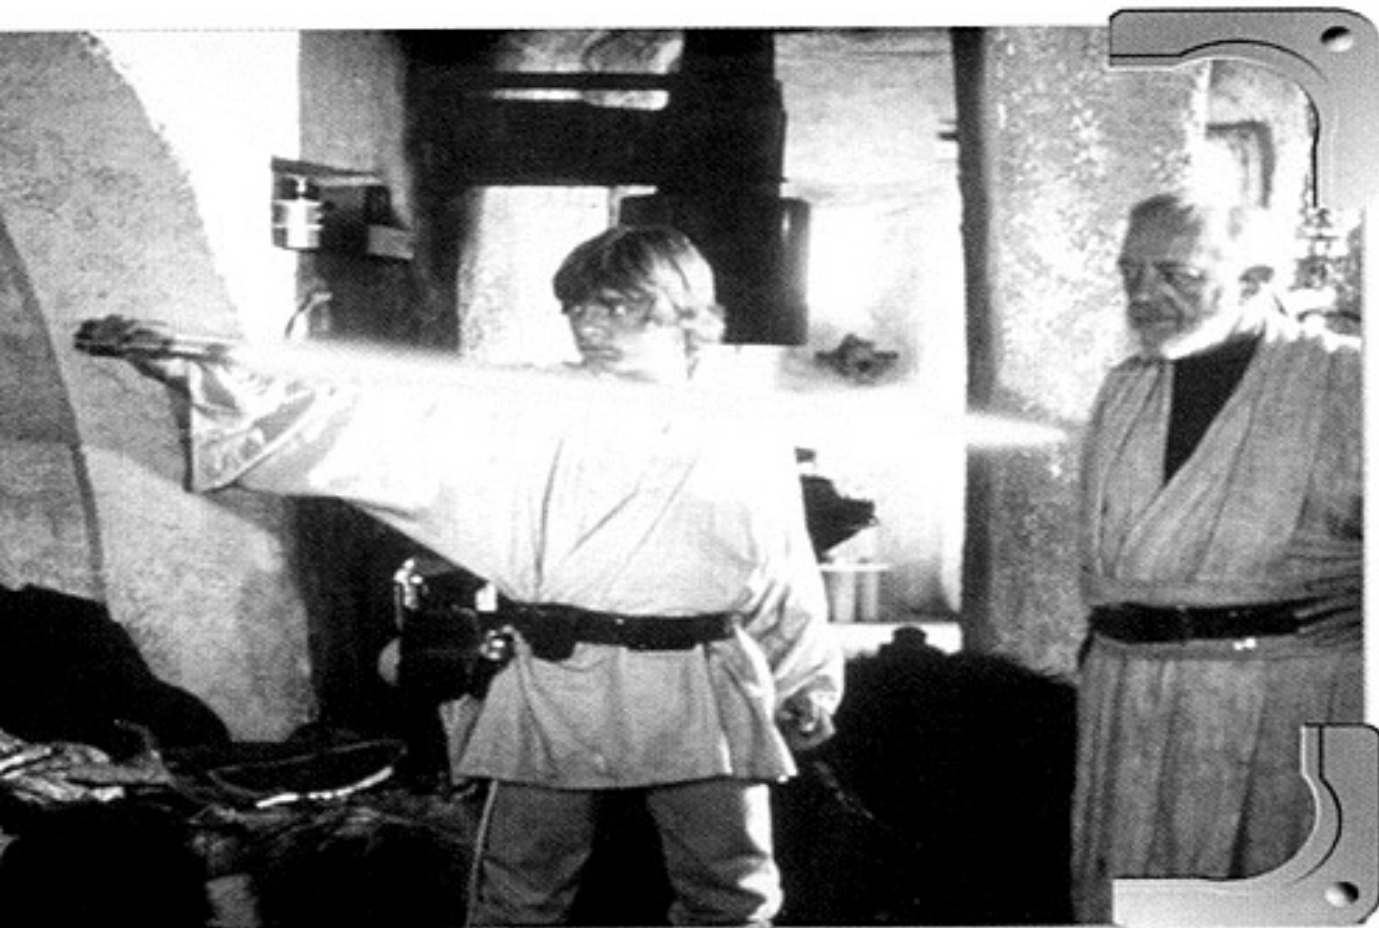

Years later, when Obi-Wan was ready to take on another apprentice, he told Luke, “I have something here for you. Your father wanted you to have this when you were old enough . . . your father’s lightsaber.”

ned the Jedi ways from Obi-Wan.

When he was Obi-Wan's apprentice, Anakin often misplaced his lightsaber. "A Jedi's saber is his most precious possession," Obi-Wan told Anakin. "He must keep it with him at all times. This weapon is your life."

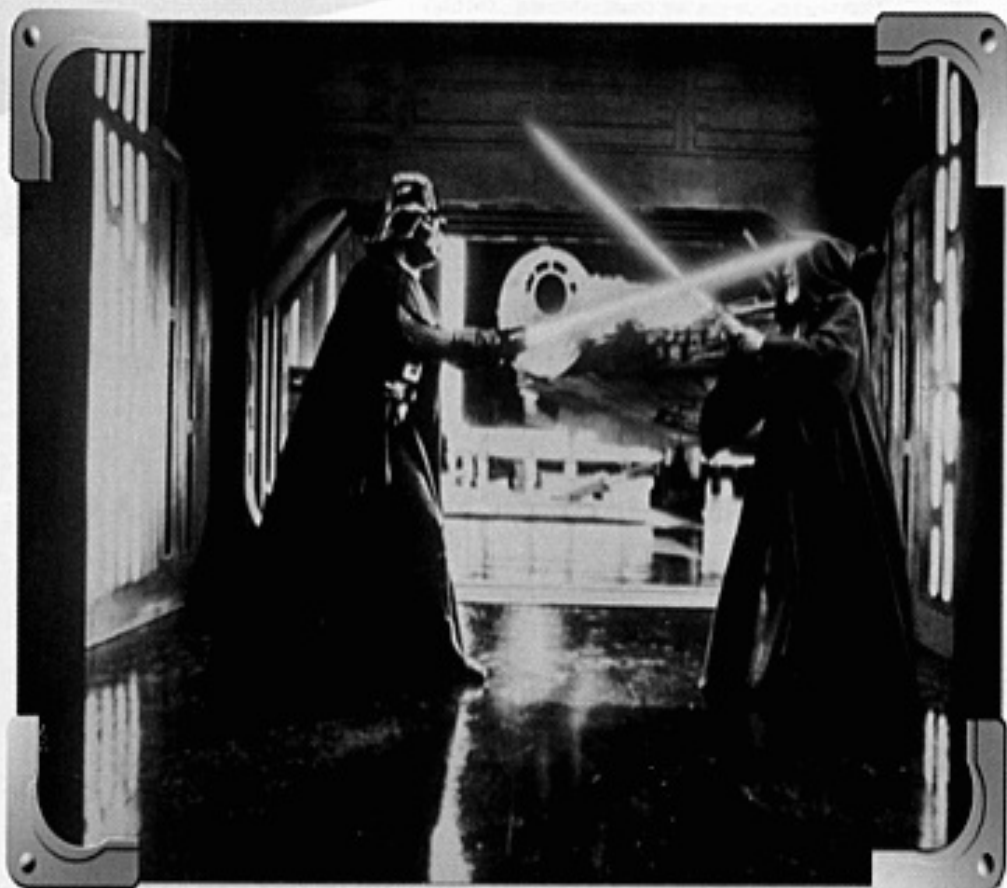

This is Anakin's
first encounter
with Obi-Wan Kenobi.

"Why do I get the feeling you're going to be the death of me?"
Obi-Wan later said to his teenage apprentice.

In the end,
Obi-Wan was right!

This is Anakin's last encounter with his mentor.

(Well, not really his last encounter. . . .)

Mother and daughter, Queen Amidala

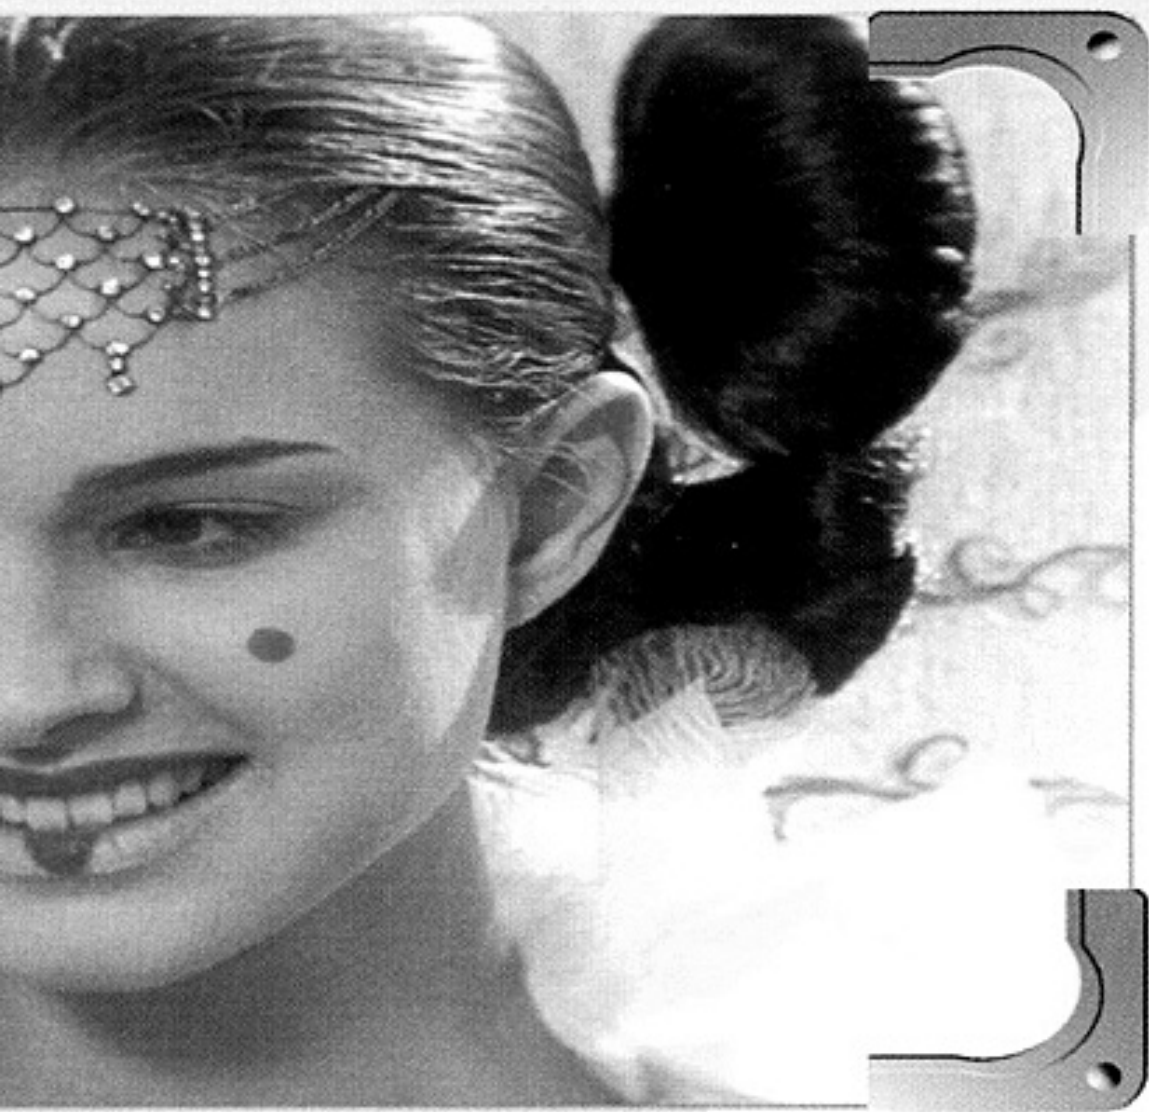

While still a teenager, Queen Amidala became leader of Naboo.

In this picture, she is presiding over the victory ceremony after the Battle of Naboo.

While still Princess Leia, she became leader of the Galactic Republic. In this picture, she is presiding over the victory ceremony after the Battle of Yavin.

Amidala and Princess Leia

a teenager, Amidala's daughter, Leia, became a leader in the Rebel Alliance. In this picture, she is presiding over a victory ceremony after the Battle of Endor.

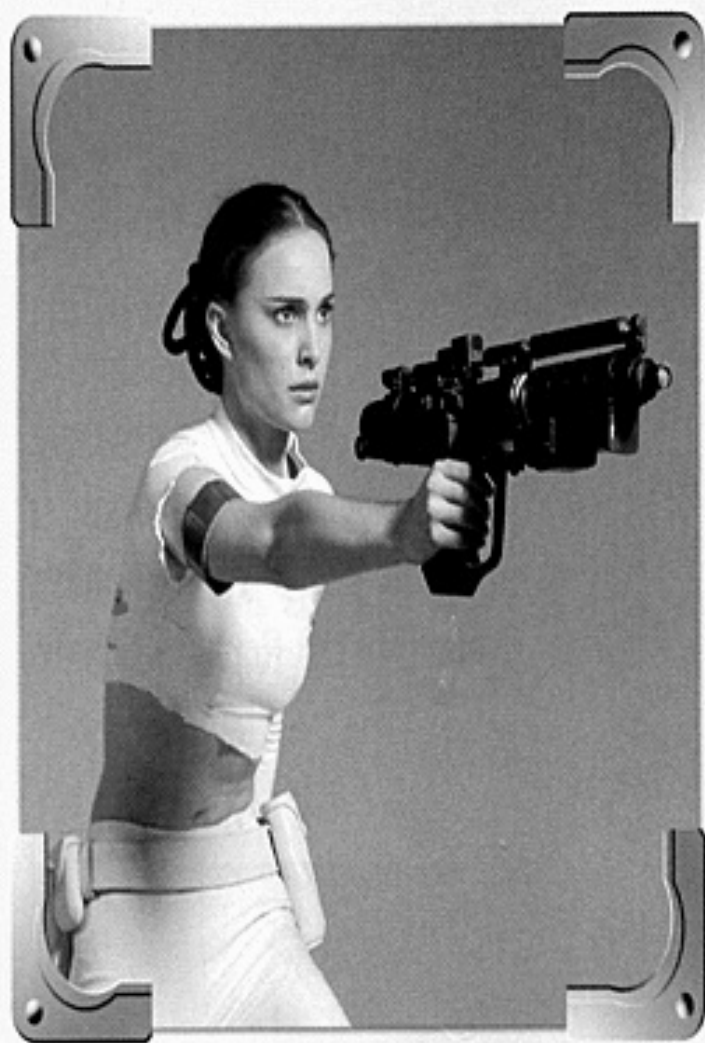

After she finished her term as Queen, Padmé Amidala became a Senator, representing the people of her home planet, Naboo, in the Republic Senate.

After she was raised by her adoptive father, Leia became a Senator, representing the people of her home planet, Alderaan, in the Imperial Senate.

Mother and daughter were fearless fighters.

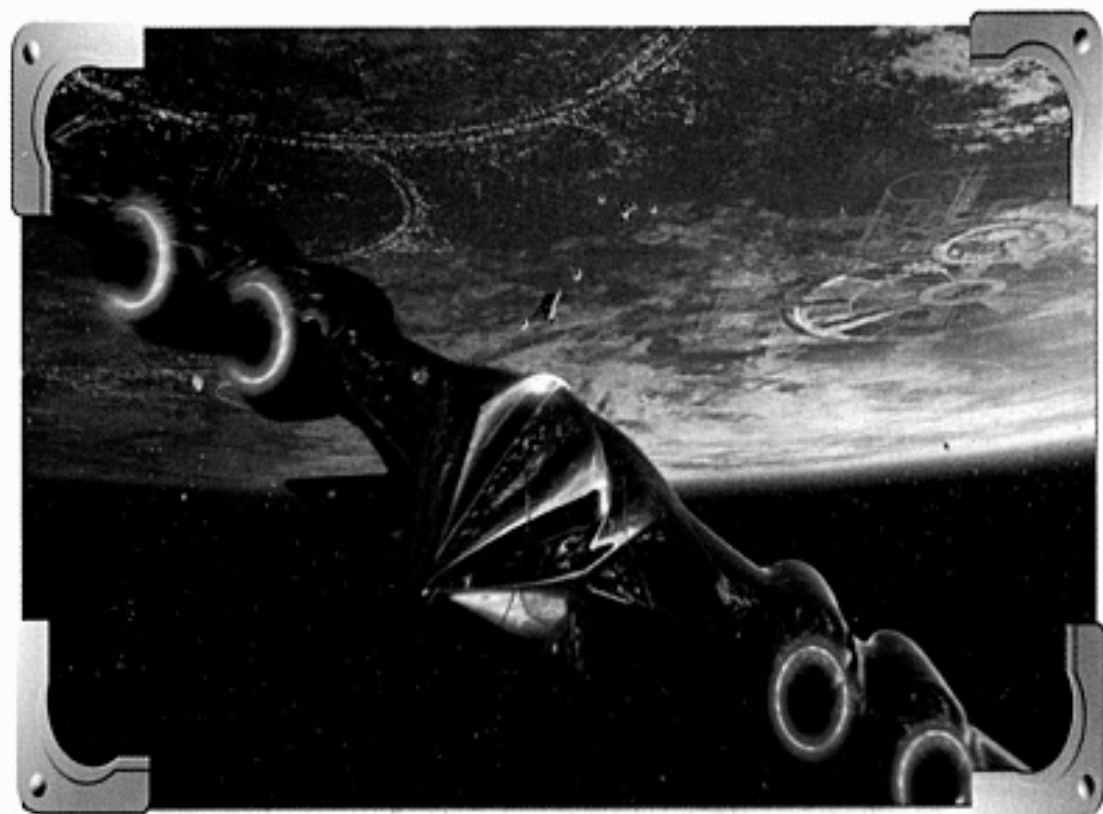

Padmé never allowed others to fight her battles for her. She was every bit as brave as her Jedi comrades.

Leia never allowed others to fight her battles either! She was every bit as brave as her fellow Rebels.

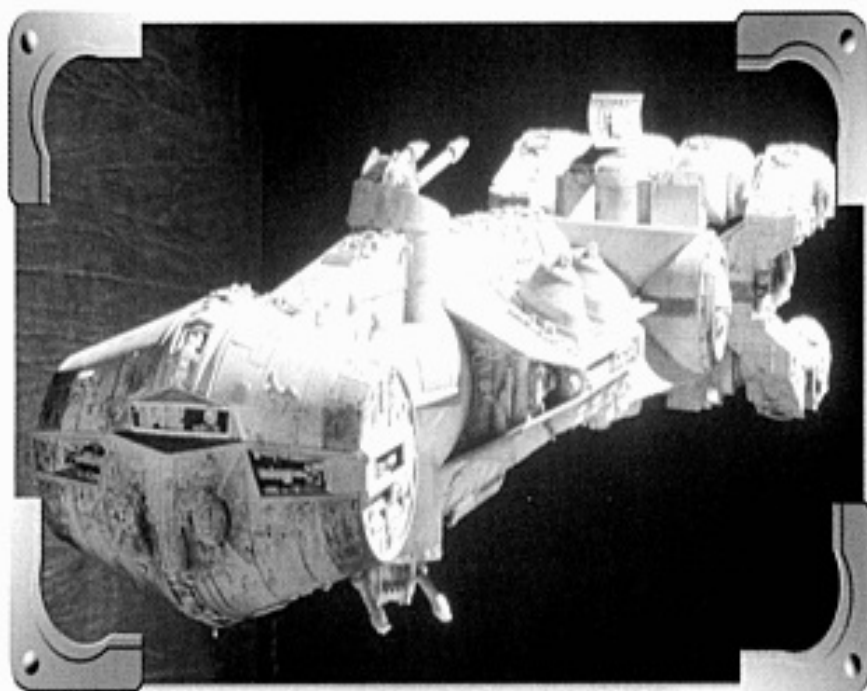

Mother and daughter had their own starships.

This is Senator
Amidala's Naboo
Cruiser. R2-D2
was aboard.

This is Senator Leia's consular starship,
the Tantive IV. R2-D2 was aboard.

This brave little Astromech Droid
served mother and daughter well!

Husband and wife, Anakin and Padmé

When Anakin first met Padmé on Tatooine, he felt an immediate bond.

For years, he could not forget her. Then he met her again, ten years later. . . .

Anakin was a member of the Jedi Order and forbidden to marry. Padmé was a member of the Republic Senate and reluctant to marry. But they loved each other, and marry they did.

Brother and sister, Luke and Leia

Anakin and Amidala's children were separated from their parents and from each other early in life. But fate brought Luke and Leia back together again.

Like their father, Luke and Leia were also strong in the Force. Years after they were reunited, Luke formed a New Order of Jedi Knights. Leia continued to inspire and lead, and after marrying, she had children of her own.

(But that's another family album!)
